MEDINA BESIEGED

Grand Shereef Proclaims
Independence; Times Says
Turkey Doomed

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

Cairo, June 21.—The Grand Shereef of Mecca, supported by the tribes of western and central Arabia, has proclaimed Arab independence of Turkey. Operations began on the 9th and were singularly successful.

Mecca, Jeddah and Taif have been captured and the Turkish garrisons have surrendered, except for two small forts at Taif, which are still resisting. 1,450 troops and six guns were captured at Jeddah. The numbers captured at Mecca and Taif are not yet known.

Medina is closely besieged. All the communications to the Hedjaz are in the hands of the Shereef. The fact that Jeddah is securely in his hands makes it possible to re-open communications by sea and trade with the Hedjaz ports can be resumed.

It is confidently expected that the obstacles to the annual pilgrimage will now be removed.

Turkey Is Doomed

London, June 22.—Discussing the "new revolt of Islam," the Times remarks that the Arab national movement which has come to a head is largely the outcome of misgovernment and oppression and has been entirely spontaneous. The present moment has probably been chosen in consequence of the Russian successes in Armenia. The Arab leaders are exceedingly shrewd and perceive that Turkey is doomed.

Annamite Constable Shot in Rue Chapsal

Attacked by One of Gang He Was Searching; Gunman
Is Arrested

An Annamite constable of the French Concession was shot last night while attempting to search a party of Chinese. The officer was on duty in the Rue Chapsal. About 9 o'clock five Chinese came down the street. He stopped them and started to search one man when another drew a revolver and fired three shots. One shot struck the constable in the left arm. When other Annamites ran up, the wounded man pointed out a Chinese who, he said, shot him. This man was arrested, but the other four got away.

ALL GERMAN ATTACKS NEAR VERDUN BEATEN

French Retain Trenches Captured on Mort Homme; Guns Shatter Charges

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

Paris, June 22.—The official communique issued yesterday evening reported: On the left of the Meuse, our fire completely stopped a German attack on the trenches we captured on the 15th, on the southern slopes of Mort Homme.

On the right of the Meuse, the Germans, after a bombardment with heavy guns, all day, in the region of Hill 320, Chapire Wood and Fumelle-Chenois, attacked west and south of Fort Vaux. Our artillery and machine-gun fire utterly shattered the assaults of the enemy, who lost heavily.

London, June 21.—General Sir Douglas Haig reports that the day was very quiet, apart from intermittent shelling and mining activity.

New Japanese War Minister is Building Up a Larger Army

LIEUT. GEN. OSHIMA

Lieut. Gen. Oshima, recently appointed War Minister of Japan, has submitted plans for the increasing of the Japanese army. Several military bills have recently passed the Japanese parliament. The increased revenues due to war trading with the Allies are said to have given the war department funds with which to provide an increase in men and equipment.

M. Clementel Warns Allies Against Being Surprised In Peace

Paris Conference Considered
Effective Reply To Germany's Trade Plans

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

Paris, June 21.—The newspapers consider that the resolutions passed at the economic conference, if acted upon, will be an effective reply to the enemy's plan for an economic confederation of Central Europe. M. Clementel emphasises that the Allies must not be surprised by peace as they were by war.

Le Journal des Debats says that one must greatly rejoice at the results obtained at the economic conference. The start proves the good consequences of these declarations and they cannot help being excellent on condition that one remains faithful to their spirit.

"We shall usher in a new era of peace only if we know how to unite in an enterprising spirit intelligently active to the advantages of liberty."

Le Temps says that true federation is being instituted not to imitate the methods of the Germans, but to baffle their pernicious influence. It may be that this new union will not satisfy everybody, but the general good must prevail and the Governments will have to hearten and strengthen the new accord.

Baron Matsui, the Japanese Ambassador to France, interviewed by La Liberté, reviewed the work accomplished by Japan at Kiao-chow and in the Pacific and Indian oceans and her industrial effort to supply abundant war material, principally to Russia. Concluding, he said that he hoped the present alliance, born from these circumstances, would survive them. "It is necessary to the world's safety and, should it cease, Germany, becoming free again, will resume her evil work."

Li Lieh-chun Seizes Cable And Railway Stations At Shiuchow; Line Wrecked

Lung Chi-kwang Sends Defense Force; Yunnanese, Denied Entrance to Shiuchow, Rout Garrison

Reuter's Pacific Service to The China Press

Hongkong, June 22.—It is reported that Li Lieh-chun has seized the telegraph and railway stations at Shiuchow and has also removed a section of the Canton-Hankow railway in Peiking Valley.

Governor Lung Chi-kwang has despatched a thousand soldiers to the district.

Commenting editorially, the China Mail remarks that the position in Kwangtung is by no means satisfactory.

Yunnanese Win Fight

A Peking despatch to the Eastern News Agency (Japanese) says that word has come from Canton that an advanced detachment of Yunnan forces under General Chang Kai-ju reached Shiuchow on June 15, when General Chu Fu-chuan, the Commissioner of Defence at that place, closed the city gates and refused to allow the Yunnan forces to enter and moreover has stopped supplies of provisions and native craft. The Yunnan forces were obliged to encamp in the open outside the city for two days. General Chu secretly mounted guns on the city wall and prepared to fight and opened fire without any cause.

Thus, the Yunnan forces were obliged to fight from the evening of the 17th to the forenoon of June 18. Chu's army has been defeated and General Chu has fled and his men have almost all surrendered to the Yunnan forces.

The main force of General Li Lieh-chun is stationed at Ching Yuan-hsien. All the Chichun or the army of General Lung Chi-kwang in Chingyuan and Shiuchow have surrendered to the Yunnan forces. Moreover, General Shang Kai-ju has gone to Chaoching to report at the Chunwuyuan about these affairs to the effect that he had no intention to fight but as General Chu forced the attack he was obliged to defend himself.

General Lung Chi-kwang has also sent his delegates Lu and another to Chaoching and measures to settle the affair are being considered at the Chunwuyuan.

Try to Secure Unity In British Ministry

Leading Members Have Conference with Carson; 'Delicate Negotiations'

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, June 21.—Apparently a strong effort is being made to attain unity in the Cabinet on the Irish question. Mr. A. Bonar Law, Mr. Balfour, Lord Robert Cecil, Earl Curzon, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Lord Selborne and Mr. Walter Long conferred with Sir Edward Carson at the Colonial Office.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Asquith asked for the postponement till next week of a question regarding Ireland, in view of the delicate negotiations proceeding.

Mr. Asquith stated that Lord Wimborne's resignation from the post of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has been accepted.

and Chengtu are mutually at war.

General Chow is marching northwards with an army to retake the capital, and Chen Yi, the Tutuh, has sent an army to resist him.

Chen Yi and the people here openly accuse General Chow of duplicity. They say he several times promised to support Chen Yi if independence were declared, but when once it was done he plainly went the other way. Accordingly they are feeling very sore at him.

No doubt Chen Yi's hands were forced. He certainly did not want to come to a full rupture with Peking. His plan was, from the first, to mediate. Like Tsal Ao he was not an extremist. He saw, or thought he saw, that the only hope for the peace of China was for Yuan Shih-kai to resign, yet, provided a responsible Cabinet was formed and certain assurances given, he was perfectly willing for Yuan to remain. His whole aim was to save his nation from internal discord, and fratricidal strife.

He won Tsal Ao round to his point of view. Whatever may be said to the contrary, this remains true. But the other leaders in the South would not listen to Tsal Ao's and Chen Yi's more moderate demands. They said plainly: "Yuan cannot be trusted and Yuan must go."

The nine articles of agreement come to between Tsal Ao and Chen Yi were published fully a month ago in the Chengtu newspapers and wired on to Shanghai and Peking. These prove conclusively the plans of Tsal Ao and Chen Yi took. The pity is that the other revolting provinces would not finally adopt them. They show, however, the real opinions of Chen Yi.

As the weeks went past the Szechuenese independence party grew stronger and stronger. Chen Yi had to recall General Fung from Suifu for safety's sake lest the local rebels and robbers should loot the city. General Fung, on arrival, said from all he had seen of Szechuen and of its great unrest the only plan was to declare independence. This finally turned the scale.

But, now it is done, apparently Chen Yi means to abide by his decision. He has told General Chow that if he will come and be Tutuh he calls high Heaven to witness he will vacate his office and let him fill it. But if he

Lieutenant Immelmann, Kaiser's Famous Flyer, Killed in France

Lieutenant Immelmann

A Reuter cable from Amsterdam, yesterday, stated:—"The German papers announce that their champion flyer, Immelmann, has been killed by the fall of his aeroplane on the western front."

Immelmann was easily the most dangerous of Germany's flying men and, from the Berlin war reports, it would appear as though, in point of the number of hostile machines he has brought down, there is not one of the Allies' airmen to compare with him. Amongst his own people he was known as the "Super-Hawk" and it was only quite recently that it was reported that he had been challenged to an air duel for the championship of the world by Lieut. Navarre, France's twenty-one year old "Eagle." Navarre dropped a second challenge in the German camp.

Immelmann is credited with having brought down seventeen enemy aeroplanes. His challenger has a record of fourteen.

CHING LING-FOO'S TIGER IS BURNED TO DEATH

Famous Magician's Quarters In Shanghai Attacked By Flames;
Monkey Also Lost

Ching Ling-foo is the greatest magician in all China. He and his troupe can make a hearty meal off a bowl of fire or by waving their supple hands can cause strange disappearances. His favorite feat is to cause the appearance of large bowls of water.

But with all their arts they could not combat the flames that broke out yesterday afternoon in the home and storeroom of the great magician at No. 1,355 Avenue Edward VII. It may be that one of the troupe was practicing fire eating and let a little of it slip off his fork. At any rate the alarm came in and the Fire Brigade hurried to answer it. And if, meanwhile Ching Ling-foo had tried his water trick, it must have failed completely.

"There's a tiger out in the yard," shouted one of the excited performers as the firemen came up. "Save him!" One houseman started to back out, saying that if there were any human beings to save he would be glad to oblige, but he didn't care to save the lives of any tigers as such animals might misunderstand his intentions.

"He's in a cage," explained the Chinese. "It's the one we make disappear in our act."

"Why don't you make him disappear now?" asked the smoke eater as he unreeled the hose.

The magician said that he couldn't do anything without his props and the firemen tried their best to save the tiger. In spite of all they could do the tiger was a total loss. A monkey used in another act also perished in the flames. The fire spread rapidly through the house and destroyed a great deal of films, scenery and stage paraphernalia. It was put out after about two hours work. One of the firemen caught a live wire and was rendered unconscious, but was revived without difficulty.

Kaiser's Eastern Army

Pushing Russians Back
(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

Official German report.—Headquarters, June 21.—Western theater. Spirited artillery and air-fights occurred at several places between the Franco-Belgian frontier and the Oise. The patrols in the districts between Berry-au-Bac and Fratelle and east of Saint Die brought in French prisoners.

A British aeroplane was shot down by the fire of anti-aircraft guns at Pusieux, north-west of Bapaume. One man of the crew was dead. A French aeroplane was forced to land at Pont-a-Mousson; its crew have been captured.

Eastern theater.—The army group of von Hindenburg has successfully advanced north-west and south of Dunaburg, in the Dubalovka district, north-east of Smorgon and on both sides of Krevo. In the district of Dubalovka, several Russian positions, one after the other, have been taken, over 200 prisoners have been made and numerous machine-guns and mine-throwers captured.

The enemy suffered severe and bloody losses. German air-squadrons attacked the railway stations of Saljeje and Molodetschno.

The position of Prince Leopold's army is unchanged. The army group of von Linsingen has repulsed by a counter-attack near Gruziatyn, west of Kolki, the Russian forces which had crossed the Styr. The attacks of the enemy have been repulsed.

North-west of Lutsk, the enemy strongly resisted our offensive. The fighting is still in progress. At Gruziatyn, the Russians lost 1,000 prisoners. We are advancing south of Turia.

With the army group of General Count Bothmer, no change has taken place.

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, June 21.—The Gazette publishes despatches received from General Sir John Maxwell regarding the operations in Egypt. He mentions the large number of Indian troops employed and pays a tribute to the ceaseless vigilance of the Indian Expeditionary Force under Major-General Wilson, ably assisted by Brigadier Bingley, in guarding a hundred miles of the Canal front throughout the summer.

He mentions that, on November 23, 1915, a squadron of the Mysore Lancers routed a Turkish force and killed the Bedouin leader who was responsible for most of the raids on the Canal, after which the raids ceased entirely.

He also pays a tribute to the dash and resolution shown by the 15th (Ludhiana) Sikhs in the operations in Western Egypt and the assistance given by the navy, under Vice-Admiral Peirse.

Shanghai High School Annual Prize-Giving

The pupils of the Shanghai High School, on the occasion of their prize-giving day, yesterday, gave a performance of a musical play called "Kalawampus" which was splendidly done in every way. Quite the best work was the portrayal of Krah by Dorothy Mancell who both acted and sang beautifully. Alice Firth also sang a couple of songs which showed that she is the possessor of a remarkable voice for a child so young. The audience were delighted with the production and were not slow to show their appreciation.

Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, chairman of the School Committee, in his address paid a tribute to the founders of the school and to Miss Fraser for the fine work she and her staff had accomplished. He said that in 1913 there were 30 children in the school, now there were 110. He looked forward confidently to the time when a school worthy of British boys and girls would be erected in the western district.

Mr. H. Phillips, H. B. M. Consul, addressed the children saying how pleased both he and Mrs. Phillips were to be among them. He was glad to hear that a British School was contemplated. The children and the work displayed, he said, warranted a really good school and he hoped the Council would see their way to give a grant to carry on the scheme.

Mr. E. C. Pearce addressed the children and kept them highly amused with his own juvenile experiences. He called on them to give cheers for their teachers but he gave not a hint as to the Council's attitude toward the proposed British School.

Rebels Hold Many Cities Along Tsinanfu Railway

Special Correspondence of The China Press
Tsinanfu, June 18.—Your correspondent has just returned from a trip to Fangtze, Choutsun, Chingchowfu, and Wei-hsien—points along the railway line between here and Tsinanfu. Fangtze, Wei-hsien, and Choutsun are still in the hands of the rebels. At Fangtze and Wei-hsien conditions are very quiet, trading is going on and the people are being permitted to enter and leave although of course conditions are nothing like normal. Chingchowfu is in the hands of the regular soldiers and therefore everything is quiet there. Choutsun, however, is in a deplorable state. About one-half the main street was burned out, and when we visited the place yesterday several of the shops were still afire. All the other shops on the main street are tightly closed and this section of the city is surrounded by rebels who do not permit natives to enter that part of the city at all. The remainder of the city is quiet but over-run by rebels who are quietly and systematically looting the place. There will be very little of value, if anything, left in Choutsun before long. The Peking Government would no doubt have very little trouble in cleaning these rebels out if they attempted to do so, but no action has been taken so far.

GERMANY CONSIDERS U-BOAT ISSUE SETTLED

Will Not Reply to Last American Note—Von Igel Case The Only One Left

Washington, May 19.—Germany, considering the submarine controversy with the United States closed, has determined to make no response to the last American note upon the subject. Information to this effect is contained in confidential advices received here from Berlin.

The American note declared that the United States would rely on a "scrupulous execution henceforth of the now altered policy of the Imperial Government, such as will remove the principal danger to an interruption of the good relations existing between the United States and Germany, and the United States feels it necessary to state that it takes it for granted that the Imperial German Government does not intend to imply that the maintenance of its newly announced policy is any way contingent upon the course or result of diplomatic negotiations between the Government of the United States and any other belligerent government."

It was indicated at the State Department when the note was sent that the United States did not feel a reply was necessary and that should one not be forthcoming this Government would consider Germany had acquiesced.

With the apparent end of the submarine crisis and Germany's admonition to her citizens in the United States to obey local laws, German officials feel that the only remaining cause of friction is the case of Wolf von Igel, former secretary to the recalled German military attaché, arrested in New York in connection with a plot to blow up the Welland Canal. Count von Bernstorff has asked for the return of papers taken from von Igel, but the request so far has been refused by the State Department.

BOMBS ON VARDAR CAMP

Salonica, May 25.—German aeroplanes bombed French positions at Killindir (south of Lake Doiran and east of the Vardar) this morning and wounded two men. They were driven off by a vigorous cannonade. The German artillery carried out intense night firing with heavy guns on the French positions south of Doiran and Ghevgeli, but killed only one soldier and wounded two others. General Sarail, moved at the great distress of the refugees from the evacuated regions, has ordered free distributions of food.

It is now estimated that there are 7,000 Germans on the Balkan front, but all figures have naturally to be accepted with caution.

18 Killed By Bombs

Rome, May 26.—A telegram from Bari (Southern Adriatic) states that yesterday afternoon enemy airmen flew over the town and dropped bombs. No building or construction of military importance was struck, but unfortunately 18 persons were killed and about 20 injured among the civil population, most of the victims being women and children. Slight damage was caused to private buildings.

Swiss Determined To Resist Invasion

President Says Army Is Prepared To Keep Belligerents Out of Porentruy

Paris, May 20.—Switzerland is prepared to resist with all the forces at her command any invasion of her territory by troops of the belligerents, according to an interview with President Camille de Coppet sent to the Journal by its Berne correspondent.

President de Coppet was asked specifically what would be the action of Switzerland if troops of one of the warring powers should be sent across the Porentruy salient. He replied:

"The Federal Council would never tolerate such a proceeding, and in accordance with the plans of General Ulrich Wille, the Commander in Chief of our army, would order the immediate mobilization of all our forces, which would immediately be sent into action."

"The Swiss Army is in splendid condition. It has reached a perfection of training which has been hitherto unknown and has just received a complete equipment of new heavy artillery which was manufactured in France and Germany by order of the Swiss Government."

The Porentruy salient juts into France immediately south of Alsace. The town of Porentruy is about twenty miles south of the great French fortress of Belfort. If German troops were able to cross the salient they could strike at the communications of the whole French line from Verdun to Alsace.

BRITAIN AND SWEDEN REACH A SETTLEMENT

Tension Between the Two Powers Relieved, Says Lord Robert Cecil

London, May 19.—It is learned from the Foreign Office that the tension between Sweden and the Entente Allies has been ended, although no official statement is forthcoming at this time. Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, told The Associated Press an agreement had been reached today, but would give no details.

He indicated that the controversy between Sweden and Russia over the Aland Islands was fictitious, saying Russia never intended to fortify the islands. Referring to the speech of Foreign Minister Wallenberg, before the Swedish Parliament on Wednesday, Cecil declared the most remarkable feature of the address was the favor with which it was received by all parties, indicating the strong determination of Sweden to remain neutral.

Apprehension of the Swedish Government concerning the Aland Islands was removed through the good offices of Great Britain. France asked Russia for particulars on behalf of Sweden, and Russia readily gave complete and unqualified assurances that any defenses erected on the islands would be purely for emergencies of the present war, and that any such military works would be removed at the end of hostilities.

The good feeling that has arisen between Sweden and Great Britain as a result of these discussions has brought about an understanding regarding trade between England and Sweden, in accordance with which it is expected that Sweden will make large concessions with regard to pulp exports, and that Great Britain will yield in a similar manner in coal exports.

¶ This is wonderfully even lighting. Note the diagram, and compare it with any other system of lighting you know—direct reflected, indirect or semi-indirect.

A Concrete Example

¶ This diagram shows the location of direct reflected lights and their wattage. Sixteen 100-watt direct reflected units. Note the great amount of wiring necessary under the old system.

¶ Brascolites were installed: Four 250-watt units. Result—far better illumination. The wiring and fixtures (everything) cost less than the wiring only in the other plan.

METHODISTS CHOOSE LAST OF THE BISHOPS

Elect Hughes, Oldham, Mitchell And Hamilton To The Episcopacy

A PRECEDENT IS BROKEN

Two Of The New Leaders
Brothers Of Bishops;
Ritual Revision

Saratoga, May 19.—For the first time in the history of the Methodist Episcopal Church the General Conference today elected two men to the episcopacy whose brothers already are Bishops. The General Conference today elected four more Bishops, completing the list of seven General Superintendents considered necessary by the conference for new residences and to fill vacancies.

The four new Bishops elected today were the Rev. Matthew Simpson Hughes of Pasadena, Cal., elected on the twelfth ballot with 549 votes; the Rev. William Fitzjames Oldham of New York City on the fifteenth ballot, with 579 votes; the Rev. Charles B. Mitchell of Chicago on the fifteenth ballot, with 569 votes, and the Rev. Franklin Hamilton of Washington, D. C., Chancellor of the American University, on the seventeenth ballot, with 514 votes.

The conference yesterday elected as Bishops the Rev. Herbert Welch, the Rev. Thomas Nicholson, and the Rev. A. V. Leonard.

Dr. Hughes, one of the Bishops-elect, is the brother of Bishop Ewin R. Hughes of San Francisco, and there was an extraordinary demonstration when his elect was announced. Dr. Hamilton is a brother of Bishop John W. Hamilton, who retires at this conference session.

The nearest parallel to this remarkable incident was in the case of the Havens famous in church history. The Rev. Gilbert Haven of Malden, Mass., was elected Bishop in 1872, and the Rev. Erastus O. Haven of Syracuse was elected Bishop in 1880. The two were cousins, but Bishop Gilbert Haven died in January, 1880, before his kinsman was consecrated.

The only contender of strength against Dr. Hamilton on the final ballot was the Rev. E. G. Richardson of Brooklyn, whose vote at the close was 232.

Although Dr. Oldham and Dr.

Thomas Nicholson, who was elected a Bishop yesterday, are both established in New York City at present, neither is considered an Eastern man.

Dr. Oldham's elevation today gave him the title of Bishop for the second time. He was elected a Missionary Bishop for Southern Asia in 1912, but resigned to become one of the Corresponding Secretaries of the Board of Foreign Missions.

The Board of Bishops has completed the revision of the ritual according to information obtained tonight. Although several of the paragraphs substituted by the Commission on Revision were rewritten, the modernized text was accepted almost in its entirety. This is a victory for the progressive members of the Church.

The acceptance of the ritual by the Board of Bishops is binding on the General Conference, under a ruling made by the Conference after the Commission on revision made its report. The Commission eliminated the Apostles creed from the baptismal service, but the Bishops decided to restore it. The paragraph beginning with the question, "Dost thou renounce the devil?" was rewritten and modified.

The Bishops, it is understood, accepted the recommendation of the commission that persons seeking admission to the Church shall not be required to subscribe to the Twenty-five Articles of the Faith, but be asked only three questions as to their general acceptance of the material doctrine of Christianity.

The new readings in the service of baptism for children, it is said, were accepted as arranged by the commission. An entirely new form for receiving children into the Church also was accepted.

The recommendation that the words, "with my worldly goods I thee endow," be dropped from the marriage service also was accepted, according to the report. The decision of the Bishops will be announced to the General Conference by Bishop Luther B. Wilson of New York City, the Secretary of the Board of Bishops.

One of the important duties still confronting the conference is the election of Missionary Bishops. The Rev. J. E. Crowther of New York City has been suggested for Africa to succeed Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell, and the Rev. Alexander P. Camphor of Birmingham and the Rev. C. A. Tingley of Philadelphia, both negroes, are being urged to succeed Bishop Isaiah Scott as Missionary Bishop to Liberia.

Following an address by Bishop Eugene R. Hendrix, Senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church

South, at the anniversary of the Board of Conference Claimants tonight, it became known there is a movement to call a special meeting of the conference during the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South two years hence, for the purpose of considering immediate action on the question of church unity. The special conference, if the plan goes through, will be held in the same city as that of the Church South.

Bishop Hendrix brought the vast audience to its feet when he announced that he knew of a will already drawn up by a man not a member of either the Methodist Episcopal Church or the Methodist Episcopal Church South whereby $1,750,000 was set aside for the superannuate fund of both churches.

OBREGON DISCUSSES RELATIONS WITH U. S.

Asserts He Told Scott Mexico
Would Not Permit Sibley-
Langhorne Pursuit

Mexico City, May 21.—General Obregon said today that relations between Mexico and the United States were very unsatisfactory, the crossing of American soldiers at Boquilla led by Col. Sibley and Maj. Langhorne having brought matters to a critical point. He declared that he had advised General Scott at the conferences in El Paso that the Mexican Government would not give permission for the crossing at this point, and that it would be unwise for the Americans to use the Glenn Springs raid as a pretext to send more troops into Mexico.

"We have not given permission as yet," said General Obregon.

Although it is Sunday, General Carranza and his Cabinet Ministers have conferred from early morning until night. They refuse to divulge the matters discussed, but it is understood they considered the international situation. The capital is completely quiet, and theaters and other amusement places are crowded.

Mexicans are practically united. The feeling against the presence of the American troops in Mexico is strong, as Mexicans believe that the intervention, as the presence of the American soldiers is openly called, is a political move, due to the coming elections, and that the Cientificos who are in the States are using the coming of the elections to forward intervention. Many rebels who have been against Carranza have surrendered, offering their services against intervention which all Mexicans believe is close at hand.

The military and civil officials all say that they are willing to fight and die so that Mexico shall be a free sovereign nation or be wiped out entirely, as intervention has been so long threatened that Mexicans feel it is better to have it at once, so that future Mexicans can be Mexicans free from foreign interference in Mexican affairs.

IMPARTIAL AND PROGRESSIVE

Mr. Thomas On The Gentle Art Of Stirring Emotions

Paying Down for War (New York Times)

IN the House of Commons two competent authorities, one of them a member of the Government, have just uttered a warning against under-estimating the economic strength of Germany or counting more upon its weakness than upon England's strength, and, at the same time, M. Ribot, the French Minister of Finance, presented to the Chamber of Deputies his new tax proposals, which, as the financial critic of the Temps observes, mark the beginning of a new financial policy, namely, the policy of paying the utmost possible proportion of the war's cost out of current income, instead of borrowing.

At first all the belligerents had recourse exclusively to loans. Almost no attempt was made to get anything toward the war's cost from current income. There wasn't time, and, besides, it seemed probable that the war would be short, on account of its incredible cost. It could be thought of only in capital terms, as a calamity. But the longer it lasts and the more it costs the greater the necessity for reducing its terms to a working basis, instead of treating it as an uncontrollable affair.

In both England and France war taxes have enormously increased, and will doubtless be further increased in order that a larger ratio of the total war expenditures may be paid out of pocket. In Great Britain, where at first the whole cost was met by loans, one-fifth of it now is met by taxation. Germany is further behind, relying less upon taxes and more upon loans, but she has at last begun to pay interest on loans out of war taxes, instead of paying it out of the proceeds of new loans, as at first. But even in Germany war taxes must rise, and as they do so, there and elsewhere, the people will feel the strain of paying for war as they go. That is always much harder than the other way. It is easier to lend your Government money on its war loans than to give it money out of hand. One way leads to certain insolvency; the other way lies hope, not financial hope only, but something a great deal more. If people in all the belligerent countries could feel actually in their own pockets the immediate cost of the war instead of putting the bulk of it into the form of a debt to be discharged in the future, it might make a great difference, even emotionally.

At any rate, financial wisdom in England and France is now adjusting itself to the idea of war as a business that may go on. Like any other business, it has its overhead charges, its operating costs, its profit and loss, and its unnecessary waste. Next we shall hear of Europe wanting, or developing, efficiency experts able to point out ways in which war may be more cheaply produced. Economies are very possible. In fact the British Chancellor of the Exchequer will be disappointed if the cost of producing German attrition be not somewhat curtailed in the current year. In his recent budget speech he said: "We are reaching the measure of our whole expansion and we may reasonably look for economies which were difficult if not impossible under conditions of early stress."

By the end of the second year the war will have cost all around approximately $45,000,000,000. All but a small proportion of that enormous amount has been raised by war loans. Capital cannot continue to be borrowed at that rate for war purposes. If the contest continues there will have to be less borrowing and more taxing, more for the living and less for the unborn to pay, and that will mean putting war itself on diminished rations.

Disappointing Casement

In deciding what to do with Sir Roger Casement England might find a hint in Macaulay when he quotes William III., in pardoning a noble Jacobite who had repeatedly plotted his assassination, as saying: "He is fully determined to be a martyr, but I am equally determined that he shall not be."—New York Sun.

When Augustus Thomas, once a reporter, writes the great newspaper play, his stage reporter will not carry notebook and pencil. He will know how to forget he has hands. He will not fidget. Not that the dramatist-producer of the Empire Theater, New York, has laid down his rules and specifications for his hero of Park Row, but this idea of the type was the logical deduction of the reporter who interviewed him recently by way of celebrating his new melodrama, "Rio Grande."

It was an unusual interview. The playwright pressed a button, a stenographer popped or pussyfooted up from the Empire darkness, and all the reporter had to do was appear at ease while Mr. Thomas and the stenographer did his work. At least Mr. Thomas' stage reporter (if he does put the fourth estate on the stage) will be accurate.

Mr. Thomas was subjected to a quiz on what have been called the theatrical tricks in "Rio Grande." His reply, exactly as dictated to the stenographer, with even the reporter's questions omitted, is as follows:

"I am not conscious of any trickery in the presentation of 'Rio Grande.' I am conscious of getting an effect with lights where I think their toning will add to the emotional quality of the scene. That is, if we are playing the scene, then we don't attempt it in a broad light, because we very seldom attempt sentiment in broad light ourselves; very few men read poetry under the noonday sun.

"I am conscious that when there is an impressive pause on the stage, a pause amounting to a hush, that we underwrite it with distant sounds of the camp, which emphasize the fact that we are standing still on the stage and debating something. But I submit that that is life, because even in the office, when we hear some faint bit of news, years after we are conscious that the clock ticked or that the cars rolled by in the street below, because such background effects as these stay in the consciousness.

"I am also conscious of the very modern method of having an actor show his emotion not in soliloquy and in speech to others, but in his manifest effort to repress both, and in his movements like a wounded animal hunting for shade while he is doing so, because that is again the result of our rather intense training in the modern nervous life, which is another way of saying that about the highest perfection that we strive for now as individuals is that of self-control.

"But these things are all a legitimate part of a playwright's equipment. If he knows his business, and the playwright's business is correlatively what the business of the novel writer or the editorial writer or the poet or the reporter is, by which I mean 'style' in its best sense, which is again to say, economy of attention.

"As an example of the economy of attention in 'Rio Grande': Near the conclusion of the first act a soldier is stabbed. The playwright wants him stabbed in order that his last words to his daughter may be heard,

India's Resistance To Intrigue

Lord Hardinge, in the course of a conversation with the London correspondent of the New York Times, has given the following account of Indian affairs since the outbreak of the war:

For months during the early period of the war India was practically denuded of British troops. The Indian Empire gave to the British Empire, in the critical early stages of the war, when England's resources in artillery were, as is well known, entirely inadequate to the needs of the situation, the whole of its artillery of the most modern and up-to-date pattern, with the exception of a few batteries which were kept on the North-West Frontier for protection against attack from without. And even these batteries were reduced from six to four guns.

From these facts it is apparent that the Indian Government had full confidence in the loyalty of the Indian Princes, Chiefs, and peoples. There is ample evidence that German assistance, financial and other, has been given to agitators. One plot was directly instigated by Germany through various agents, who were supplied with considerable funds. This was an ambitious scheme—nothing less than to create a general revolt, which was timed to break out on Christmas Day, 1915. However, the Government was furnished with full information of the projected rising, and was able to forestall it and render all preparations abortive. The center of this plot was in Bengal, where there has always been a certain amount of anarchistic activity.

Another specific instance of the loyalty of the people in presence of a conspiracy of this kind occurred in Balasore. Here the presence of a number of revolutionaries was indicated to the police by villagers whom the agitators had approached. The peasants themselves assisted the police in tracking down and arresting the revolutionaries, some of them actually giving

The 'Jonah' At Cards A Mystery

"Don't blame your luck, my boy; blame your play," said a well-known bridge player recently to one who was "grousing" about his bad cards. "There is no such thing as luck. It all averages itself out."

His remarks set me thinking, especially as I had heard them endorsed by others whose opinions are entitled to respect. But is it true? Is it certain that there is no such thing as luck at cards? No-one will deny that every regular player has his "runs" of bad cards and good cards, sometimes lasting over a considerable period.

There are days and sometimes even weeks when nothing can go right. You may call as well as you like, but through some apparently diabolical combination of the cards everything goes wrong. And there are those other times which always seem briefer—or is it that they bite less deeply into the memory?—when everything goes right. The deepest finesse comes off. Your partner has just the right cards to fit your hand, and you proceed from triumph to triumph and are able to play up your nose and back to the very end. It is a queer and fascinating thing.

Who has not seen a thoroughly bad player in one of these "runs." He throws away trick after trick. He has had the rubber again and again. But he blunders on, and his cards are so good that in the end he profits by his mistakes, not in the sense of learning how to avoid them in the future but by winning a larger rubber than he otherwise would have done. The cards are supposed "never to forgive." They certainly never forget when you are in a bad run. One little slip in calling or in play and you never get another chance of winning the rubber that for one critical moment was within your grasp. While the "good run" was on you could play any pranks you pleased.

Now, of course, no experienced player will attempt to deny the existence of these strange runs of good and bad cards; but what I understand is meant by these players who pride themselves especially upon freedom from any kind of superstition or迷信. They say that the "good run" is attributed to luck, but that they are regulated by those "laws of chance" which have been analyzed so learnedly by Professor Karl Pearson and others. These "laws of chance"—it always seems to me, paradoxical to speak of "laws" of chance—are said to prove that if you throw up a coin a certain number of times (I forget how many) heads and tails are bound to equalize.

But even supposing that it is established that luck averages itself out, and that in the long run every player of cards holds an equal number of good hands and bad hands, it is impossible to put a time limit upon it. Viewing every time you sit down to the card table as a fresh transaction when you start de novo, there is no reason why because you held bad cards yesterday you should hold good cards today.

You cannot put any particular term upon the period when your luck is bound to equalize. You might average bad cards for one, two, three, four, or five years just as easily as you might average bad cards for one, two, three, four, or five days or weeks. The experience of the majority probably shows that if accurate observation be kept, the cards do equalize themselves within a certain definite period.

But to me, at any rate, this does not seem to finish the argument. There exist in almost every club a certain number of men, not always by any means bad players, who have a settled reputation as bad card-holders. They are the "Jonahs," and everyone fights shy of them. How often do you hear the remark, "Oh, so-and-so is not a bad player, but he is a shocking card-holder. No-one can ever win a rubber with him. He's a regular Jonah." And there are others who are such notoriously good card-holders that they seem to think they have a divine right to good cards, and who, on the rare occasions when they do hold thoroughly bad hands, resent it as an inexplicable oversight on the part of Providence.

Granted that some players blame their ill-luck often when they should blame their own calling or play, the converse is likewise true, and players frequently attribute to their own skill what is really due to the luck of the game. For, when all is said and done, I refuse to believe that luck is a matter that can be reduced to law. You may try to prove to me that the club "Jonah" is merely passing through an unlucky stage and that if we followed his career long enough we should see matters equalizing for himself. But personally I do not believe it. So long as the element of luck exists in everyday life, and some get more or less than their share in their daily adventures, why should not the same principle apply in cards? I hold that there are consistently lucky and consistently unlucky players. They are in the minority, but they exist.

The majority of card-players are superstitious. They may not admit it, but they are. The man who moves into the winning seat or who takes the winning pack of cards is only obeying a superstitious instinct, although he may try to disguise the fact to himself by saying he is following "the run of the cards," which, in his quaint idea, is not superstition. The superstitions of card-players are numerous and various. Personally I like them, as adding color to life, and I cultivate them, although I should not be prepared to go to the stake for any one of them. I know several men who, when called upon to choose their seat, will only move the way of the sun and the port.

Another will never accept a cigarette from his opponents. Yet another will always look at the last card dealt to him first and derive inspiration for his call therefrom. Another again, will only play at a certain time, according to his own account, when he carries a certain mascot in his waistcoat pocket. To drop a card on the floor when playing is a bad omen. You will not win if you allow your cards or play with a cross-eyed man. How very childish! Perhaps, and yet how very human! And surely there is something to be said for this childish attitude in a world where, after all, we know little for certain and least of all the workings of that capricious thing we call Luck.

Second Son of Lord Wemyss Falls In Battle

By La Marquise de Fontenay

Lord Elcho, who, first of all was reported badly wounded at the front, in France, has now, according to the cable despatches, been officially recorded as "missing," and whose death may therefore be presumed.

He then bore the name of Hugo Charteris, and during his stay was visited by his mother, now Lady Wemyss, then Lady Elcho, and by his sister, Lady Cynthia Charteris, who afterwards married Premier Asquith's second son, Herbert.

If Lord Elcho's death is established, as seems to be a foregone conclusion, he will be the second of the sons of Lord and Lady Wemyss to fall in the present war, for their youngest boy the Hon. Ivo Charteris, fell in battle in France, as a second lieutenant of the Grenadier Guards, just before last Christmas, and when only in his 19th year.

Lord Elcho married in 1911 Lady Violet Manners, daughter of the Duke of Rutland, and two boys have been born to this union, now aged 4 and 3 respectively. The elder of the two, until now known as the Hon. Francis Charteris, will in due course succeed to his grandfather's honors and estates, which include the earldom of Wemyss and of March, the viscounty of Peebles, the baronies of Elcho, of Douglas, and of Methel, besides extensive estates in the counties of Gloucester, Perth, and Haddington.

Lord Wemyss, who is the tenth Earl of Wemyss and seventh Earl of March, is cleverer than he looks, and during the near twenty years that he sat in the House of Commons he was known as one of the wittiest members of that chamber. His wit possesses additional flavor owing to his power of using the most absurd arguments in a tone and with an aspect of the most absolute seriousness and even solemnity. His command of his features is marvelous, and he was wont to put the House of Commons into roars of laughter without permitting himself to be betrayed into even the suspicion of a smile. This was particularly the case in his annual speeches in favor of an adjournment over Derby day.

Despite his pleasant gift of speech, he is a rather silent man, which enhances the value of his utterances; and he managed to defeat Arthur Balfour in the contest for the hand of the once lovely Mary Wyndham, now Countess of Wemyss and of March. Ex-Premier Balfour never got over her rejection by Mary Wyndham, for whose sake he has always remained single, and for whom he retains a romantic and a chivalrous affection.

Her features are familiar to the public on both sides of the Atlantic, through one of John S. Sargent's masterpieces, the painting in question representing her and her two sisters, Lady Glenconner and Mrs. Charles Adeane. The picture was the feature of one of the Royal Academy exhibitions of some twenty years ago, where it was designated by King Edward, then Prince of Wales, in his speech at the Royal Academy, as The Three Graces, a title well merited, and which has stuck to Lady Wemyss and her fascinating and gifted sisters ever since.

Lord Wemyss (whose name should be pronounced "Weems") takes his title from the territory or shire of Wemyss, on the north shore of the Firth of Forth. It is a shire which is said to derive its name from the "weems" or caves which honeycomb its rock coast, and the walls of which are sculptured with the works of the early Christian missionaries, to whom they furnished shelter.

The family is a very ancient one and is descended from that Sir David Wemyss, who, in the thirteenth century, was one of the Scottish nobles chosen to convey Queen Margaret, the Maid of Norway, from Scandinavia to Scotland on her accession in her mother's right to the Scottish crown. Indeed, at Wemyss castle there still exists a curious bowl presented by the then king of Norway to Sir David Wemyss.

Wemyss castle, by the bye, which is the ancestral home of the family, is in the possession, not of Lord Wemyss, but of his young kinsman, Michael John Wemyss, an officer of the Royal Horse Guards. The reason is the fact that the eldest son of the fifth earl sided with the Stuarts in the Jacobite rebellion, and was in consequence attainted by parliament, and that the estates, instead of being confiscated by the crown, were transferred to his younger brother, James, member of parliament for Sutherland, who had espoused the Hanoverian cause. It is from this younger brother, James Wemyss, that Michael Wemyss, the present owner of Wemyss castle, is descended.

He holds it, however, subject to certain conditions. For his father, the late Randolph Gordon Erskine press, that have just been visiting Paris and London, after being allowed to inspect the battle fronts in France, may possibly be remembered by some of the older generation under his former name of Alfred Escobar. He spent nearly two years in America in the late '70s after visiting the centennial exhibition at Philadelphia, and in spite of his being the owner and editor in chief of the Madrid Epoca, the chief organ of the Conservative party, and the most powerful and influential daily newspaper in Spain, he has always retained a warm regard for the American people.

The Epoca was founded in 1848 by Don Alfredo's father, Ignacio Jose Escobar, who played an important role in bringing about the restoration of Alfonso XII. In recognition of his services he was created Marquis of Valdeiglesia by the late king, whose widow later on during her term of office as regent appointed him a life member of the senate.

Little Bobbie's Pa By William F. Kirk

When Pa came home last nite he had a friend with him, the friend's name was Opie Binks. He introduced his friend to Ma.

Wife, sed Pa, in the course of a conversashun wich I had this afternoon with Mister Binks up to the Museum of Art, he told me that he used to live in Wisconsin, and I thought I wud like to have him meet you. He says he thinks he knows yure brother Hank out in Bloomer.

Old Hank Miller, sure I know him, sed Mister Binks, him and me was members of the same lodge for many years. We was grate chums up till the time he got suspended, sed Mister Binks. He sed he got tired of paying lodge dues for nothin'.

I can't say that I blame my brother much, sed Ma, it seems tuff to pay for the privilege of meeting sum peepul I have seen laity.

Mister Binks sed they had a terribul hard winter back in Bloomer, sed Pa, I thought maybe you wud be interested. What was the hardest winter you remember? sed Pa to Ma.

The winter I met you, deerest, sed Ma. Did you bring home the samples I asked you to stop in and git?

How vary careless of me sed Pa. I was telling Binks here that I knew there was sumthin' I had forgot.

I will be sure to remember them tomorrow, sed Pa. Well, Binksy, old sport, sed Pa, how do you like our

You have a butiful little flat, sed Mister Binks. It must be a grate place to spend our evenings. I suppos you read a grate deal.

O yes, a grate deal, sed Pa, that is my wife does. She reads mostly out of that volum of Grand Romances of the World, Binksy. How wud that strike you, to have your wife read you the grate Romances of the World?

My wife aint vary romantick, sed Mister Opie Binks. Sumtimes I think she married me for my munny tho I hate to think that.

I shud think any man wud hate to think that, sed Ma. It can't be vary comfortin' for a man to think that he has nothin' but his munny with wich to malk a appeal to the fair sex. You must have been pritty well fixed, even at that, sed Ma.

Well, sed Mister Binks, I am well fixed, and that is where the shoe runs oover at the heel. Men with a lot of munny never reely know who thare reel frends are. Every time a man rings my hand, he sed, I am affraid he is going to ring my pocket-book next.

That is indeed a butiful way to go thru life, sed Ma. It must be fine to distrust every man you meet, jest beekaus you happen to be the owner of a big share of wurldly welth. You are to be pitied in many ways, sed Ma, in many ways indeed.

Indeed, sed Mister Binks, I had no idee I was that bad off. I guess I better be on my way.

received on that occasion, and that my Indian servant, who was on the elephant with my wife and myself, has also quite recovered. It may interest people to know that it has been proved that the bomb was thrown by one of a gang of three, of whom two have already suffered capital punishment for other crimes of a similar nature.

(Lord Hardinge's reference was, of course, to the attempt against his life on December 23, 1912, when a bomb was thrown at him as he was riding through the streets of Delhi. He was injured all over the back and legs and head with fragments of the bomb, the flesh on his shoulders being torn in strips.)

There are certain Germans in Persia and in Afghanistan (in the latter country they are now interned) who had wireless stations at Isfahan—now in the hands of the Russians—and at Shiraz, and transmitted all sorts of information, true and false. This doubtless accounts for some of the reports which have been current in America, particularly with regard to conditions on the North-West Frontier.

It is true that during the past year we had no fewer than seven very serious attacks from tribesmen just outside our frontier. They were, however, all repulsed and the tribesmen severely punished. Frontier disturbances now present a very much more serious problem for the tribesmen, in view of the introduction of aeroplanes, armored cars, and high explosives. No serious trouble need be apprehended.

Ameer gave the Viceroy the most solemn assurances, which have since been renewed, of his intention to preserve the neutrality of his country; and I, as the ex-Viceroy, have the firmest confidence, in spite of the very great pressure put upon him by certain members of his family and some prominent officials, encouraged by Germans and Turks who are in Kabul at the present time and who went there with letters from the Kaiser in the hope of inducing the Ameer to proclaim a Jihad on the North-West Frontier, that his Majesty's promises will be loyally performed.

ENORMOUS EARNINGS OF U. S. STEEL FIRM

Now Close To 275 Million Dollars a Year—The Dividend Outlook

The United States Steel Corporation is earning at a rate of close to $275,000,000 a year, but there have been no official intimations that directors will declare something extra on the common stock in July. Earnings at a rate of $275,000,000 mean a surplus available for the common of $40 a share. If there is no let up in steel business the rest of the year United States Steel will add to its surplus, or property value in new construction, about $35 a share in 1916, if dividends are maintained on the common at 5 per cent. annually.

Although earnings for the current year promise to be large, it is not likely that a big percentage of profit will go to common shareholders in dividends. Chairman Gary is alive to the wonderful prosperity the country is enjoying, but does not believe the steel industry will enjoy unexampled prosperity after the war. He is anxious to build up a large surplus as a precautionary measure against a period of depression. It is the desire of the corporation to go through the next depression a lender rather than a borrower.

Republic Iron and Steel Company continues a conservative dividend policy. It is the intention to pay off back dividends on the preferred so long as conditions warrant, but dividends on the common have not yet been considered, although earnings are running at $30 a share.

When current extraordinary prosperity is at an end, Republic will be stronger financially and physically than at any time in its history. Cash holdings will be large enough to weather a depression more severe than the steel industry has ever experienced. The progress Republic has made in economic operations, new construction, etc., warrants the statement that common stock is nearer dividends than ever before, but this does not mean an initial dividend in the near future.

Bethlehem Steel is paying $30 a share to common shareholders and earning that much a month. Shareholders are bound to benefit from these enormous earnings and extra dividends may be declared. This may not come, however, until the latter part of this year or early next year.

Midvale Steel, with Cambria, is estimated to be earning $40,000,000 a year. There have been reports that the stock will be placed on a dividend basis in June or July, but no meeting has yet been called.

Crucible Steel is making a big showing, but directors have not even considered paying off back dividends on the preferred, let alone an initial dividend on the common.

There has been talk of favorable action on dividends by Lackawanna Steel Company, but nothing has materialized as yet. Lackawanna has heavy losses of previous years to make up, and any dividend action will be conservative.

In connection with the proposed increase of the capital of the T.K.K. there is a difference of opinion between the shareholders and the directors. Mr. Asano, president of the company, who foresees a great prosperity for shipping trade for several years more, earnestly desires to increase the capital by 13,000,000 yen. But some of the shareholders hold more conservative views and favor a smaller increase. They will not object to an increase of half the amount originally proposed by Mr. Asano. An extraordinary meeting of the shareholders of the company will be held.

NEW TAXES IN FRANCE

Finance Minister Proposes Heavier Impost on Alcohol

Paris, May 18.—M. Ribot, the Finance Minister, presented to the Chamber of Deputies on its ressembling today a measure covering the credits for the third quarter of the year. The credits aggregate $310,000,000 francs.

The Finance Minister accompanied the measure with a statement showing a satisfactory condition of the Treasury and of the Bank of France, and outlining the steps taken to remedy the exchange situation.

M. Ribot called attention also to the necessity of providing now, before the end of the war, for interest charges on new loans, and he proposed, to that end increases in direct and indirect taxes that will increase the revenue 900,000,000 francs annually on alcohol, wine, beer, cider, sugar, and tobacco. The tax on alcohol is increased to 400 francs per hectolitre.

The Finance Minister added that the declarations of the revenues under the new income tax law totaled 2,949,000,000 francs from 183,000 persons.

The measure submitted by M. Ribot would double the tax on horses, carriages, automobiles, billiard tables, clubs, hunting preserves and mines. I would tax house dogs ten francs each and hunting dogs five francs each.

The measure also would increase from 5 to 6 per cent. the tax on unlisted foreign securities and increase from 25 to 40 francs per hundred kilos. the Customs duties on sugar. Official statistics for the month of April show that France exported goods to the value of 33,500,000 francs more than for the same month last year. In importations the amount was 103,000,000 francs more than for April, 1915.

tion of the detailed regulations, governing the payment of interest of the said Loan, which have been printed for the information of the Public by all the establishments authorised for the payment of interest, the following important points are hereby published for general information:—
